

FRANK DEVOS

Frank Devos is a Belgian film director of international commercials and TV Drama series. During his 25 year long career he has directed more than 650 commercials and won 67 prizes at different Festivals around the globe.

He was granted his latest award in 2019 for his Netflix drama series UNDERCOVER at the CINEQUEST Film Festival in California.

Although he followed photography courses at the Sint Lukas film school in Brussels where he studied, it's only been 10 years since he started taking pictures himself. It happened when he saw in front of him a great scene he wanted to shoot and then realized he only had a cheap camera to do so. From then on, he has been travelling with his photographic material just to be sure to not miss anything!

He is mostly active with street photography while traveling for work or during long road trips on holidays. He sometimes also takes shots of actors he is working with.

Frank is a storyteller and likes to observe ordinary human behaviour.

His commercial TV work is mostly comedy based whereas his feature work is much darker.

In the series "UNREVEALED" he enjoyed grabbing a 'moment' that many may find pretty boring or uninteresting. Sometimes in a voyeuristic way but always with respect for the person who 'hops' in front of his lens. He makes no judgement, he just wants to register and force the viewers to imagine their own story about what they get to see.

Sometimes it's a pose, the body language or a gaze of the portrayed person that caught his attention and intrigued him.

For some kind of reason most of his subjects are WAITING in this series – Waiting for what ?

There is always a questioning about what's real and what's not.

And in the story some of the pictures will tell us, some won't but in the end... it does not matter, you made your own story...

The UNREVEALED exhibition shows another side of Frank's passion for image, this time motionless

A must-see!
